DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. Claims 5, 12, and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 5, 12, and 19, the recitation "each individual subarray of said plurality includes slotted waveguides" is not understood. There is also has no antecedent basis for "said plurality".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 15-17, and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kumpfbeck et al (6,259,415).

Kumpfbeck et al disclose, in figures 1 and 3, antenna system comprising a cavity 12, an array 16 comprising a plurality of subarrays 18 positioned in a two-dimensional arrangement, see figure 3, each of the subarray including a plurality of slotted waveguide radiating elements, the array rotated about an axis, an elevation scan actuator 42 for rotating the array, an azimuth motor 30 for rotating the cavity and the array in azimuth direction, a signal port 26, and a feed configuration coupled signals between the signal port and each subarray.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 18, 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kumpfbeck et al in view of Uematsu et al (US Patent 5,579,019).

The patent to Kumpfbeck et al, described above, differs from the claimed invention because it does not teach the slot-type radiating element comprising crossed-slot radiating elements. Uematsu et al teaches a slotted waveguide array antenna which comprises a plurality of crossed-slot radiating element, see figures 1 and 3. Since one of ordinary skill in the art would have recognized the benefits of obtaining maximum gain, it would have been obvious to employ the antenna system with the crossed-slot radiating elements as taught by Uematsu et al, see column 4, line 37-42. Regarding claim 10 the specific shape of the array antenna is considered an obvious design choice depending the desired characteristic of the antenna device.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 21 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. Claims 1-14 are allowed.

Claims 1 and 8 recite "the axis of rotation adjacent to an edge of the array and aligned with a side of the upper perimeter". The patent to Kumpfbeck et al fails to teach this limitation.

8. The patents to Eguchi and King are cited as of interest showing the antenna similar to that disclosed.
